Blinding Light

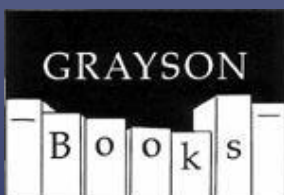

poems by Christine Beck

ISBN: 978-0-9838603-9-6 Price: $15.00

Christine Beck, a former lawyer and professor of legal studies, teaches creative writing at the University of Hartford and at private workshops. Her collection, The Charlotte Chronicles, won the mini-chapbook contest at The Centrifugal Eye and was published in 2012. A former president and current officer of the Connecticut Poetry Society, Beck lives in West Hartford, CT. Her website is www.christinebeck.net.

Christine Beck's poems are wonderfully thoughtful, clear, and frank. What's more, she has a unique story to tell—the imposition upon childhood of organized religion. Poems are a kind of theatre, and Beck manages her dramas with the light, sure touch required to turn experience into art. This is fascinating work.
